With the new technology, must come planning, professional development, and meaningful integration into teaching and learning. Learn about Chromebook use in the classrooms of LCMR and how you can assist your child with class assignments using a Chromebook. Following the presentation on Chromebooks will be a presentation on Financial Aid for college admissions.

Some flipped models include communicating with classmates and the teacher via online discussions. Through flipped learning, teachers and students work together so that students will obtain skills needed to be prepared for college and careers of the 21st century.
